Woven into the fabric of Indian democracy, it plays a pivotal role in shaping our society. In our pursuit of deeper understanding, we have organized a series of discussions that will provide students with the opportunity to explore various academic ideas on relevant and interesting constitutional topics. Euthanasia: Ethics, Autonomy and the Right to Die :: Harish Rana v. Union of India (2026)

The idea that an individual may claim a right to die with dignity compels us to examine the scope of personal liberty under Article 21, the role of the State in preserving life, and the ethical boundaries of medical decision-making. The debate around euthanasia is not merely legal—it is deeply philosophical and humanitarian. It raises pressing questions: Can autonomy extend to choosing death? How should the law balance compassion with caution? What safeguards are necessary to prevent misuse while respecting individual dignity? The evolving jurisprudence in India reflects a gradual but significant shift—from strict prohibition to a more nuanced recognition of passive euthanasia and living wills. Harish Rana v. Union of India (2026) have further invigorated this discourse by challenging existing frameworks and inviting renewed constitutional scrutiny.
