Empowering Youth for Climate Action & Sustainable Leadership

Young Climate Champions Awareness & Orientation Session

Thur.-19-Feb.-2026

Dear Parent / Student,

Greetings from Lloyd Academic Community!

Climate change is no longer a distant or abstract concern; it is an immediate global challenge that profoundly affects environmental, social, and economic systems. Meaningful and lasting solutions emerge from informed individuals who are capable of critical thinking and responsible action. Recognising the pivotal role of youth in shaping a sustainable future, Lloyd Law College and Lloyd School of Law, in collaboration with Earth.org, are organizing a Young Climate Champions — Awareness & Orientation Session.

This programme is being conducted under the aegis of the Earth Care Awards (JSW–The Times of India), with EARTHDAY.ORG serving as the All-India Outreach Partner. The session will introduce students to a prestigious national platform that recognizes innovative, practical, and scalable climate action initiatives conceptualized by young leaders across the country.

The orientation will familiarize participants with key environmental domains, including air quality improvement, biodiversity conservation, renewable energy, environmental education, sustainable waste management, and water stewardship. Students will also receive guidance on developing impactful climate solutions and preparing strong, viable proposals for submission.

Through this session, participants will gain a comprehensive understanding of the awards framework, eligibility criteria, and evaluation process, along with exposure to real-world sustainability initiatives. The programme offers students the opportunity to compete for cash awards, national recognition, and institutional acknowledgement. Designed to be interactive and student-centric, the session aligns with the institution's academic vision and commitment to sustainability, while fostering youth leadership in climate action.
