

Extension Lecture Series

Title :- “How to organize your law school days”

Date :- 28.07.2018

Speaker :- Mr. Swapnil Verma, Law Officer Power Grid Corporation of India

“The two most powerful warriors are patience and time.”- Leo Tolstoy. A newly enrolled student of legal studies encounters many troubles while handling gigantic volume of studies. Some of the concerning issues are management of time, memorization techniques of case studies, effective planning of study plan, polishing the method of writing legal cases with the additional focus on achievement of desired semester grades. The list of problem gets as enormous as different strategies to counter a problem.

Keeping these issues in mind, Internship and Placement Cell of Lloyd Law College, organized an “Extension Lecture series” on the topic “how to organize your law school days.” The event was addressed by Mr. Swapnil Verma, presently serving as Law Officer of Power Grid Corporation of India Ltd. Mr. Swapnil holds expertise in the areas of Regulatory, research and compliances, policy advocacy, Legal advice and strategization. He has done his masters from NLSIU, and is a gold medalist in the subject of Intellectual property law and Business law.

The speaker advised the students to take moot courts seriously and strengthen their CVs with Research publications. He emphasized that students must start working hard from the initial years and should never give up. Hard work is the only key to success. He cautioned the students to avoid looking k for short-cuts. The lecture received an overwhelming response from the students.