"We are PennState Law"- By Prof. Stephen G. Barnes, Assistant Dean for Graduate and International Programmes at Penn State Law, The Pennsylvania State University

A brief Introduction to PennState Law was given by Prof. Stephen G. Barnes. The talk focused upon prospects of LL.M. from PennState. A brief mention was made of the 8 graduates from Lloyd College presently pursuing courses from there.

“Arbitrability of Statutory Law”- Prof. Ylli Dautaj (Asst. Prof., Law, Nirma University, LL.M. (PennState),Ph.D. Cand.(Edinburgh)) [1st Session]

LLC hosted two international speakers in its endeavor to elucidate new entrants of the law school about planning their higher education abroad and also for making them aware of Arbitration as an alternative dispute resolution system. Welcome address was made by Mr. Manohar Thairani , the chairman LLC. The lecture focused upon the role and mechanism of International Arbitration in cross border disputes. The speaker also focused upon the contemporary criticism of International Arbitration. The avenues of Online International commercial arbitration were also discussed. The policies relating to International Arbitration were further explained in the light of comparative analysis of policies by Trump and the European Union.

The speaker concluded the lecture by putting forward his view upon the relatively new mechanism of dispute resolution concluding that it cannot be denied that there are some gaps in international arbitration, but generally it is satisfactory despite the fact that it is a new dispute resolution system. The lecture received an overwhelming response by the students.
